

Legal Research on Fastcase 7: Tellus Edition

1/22/2020

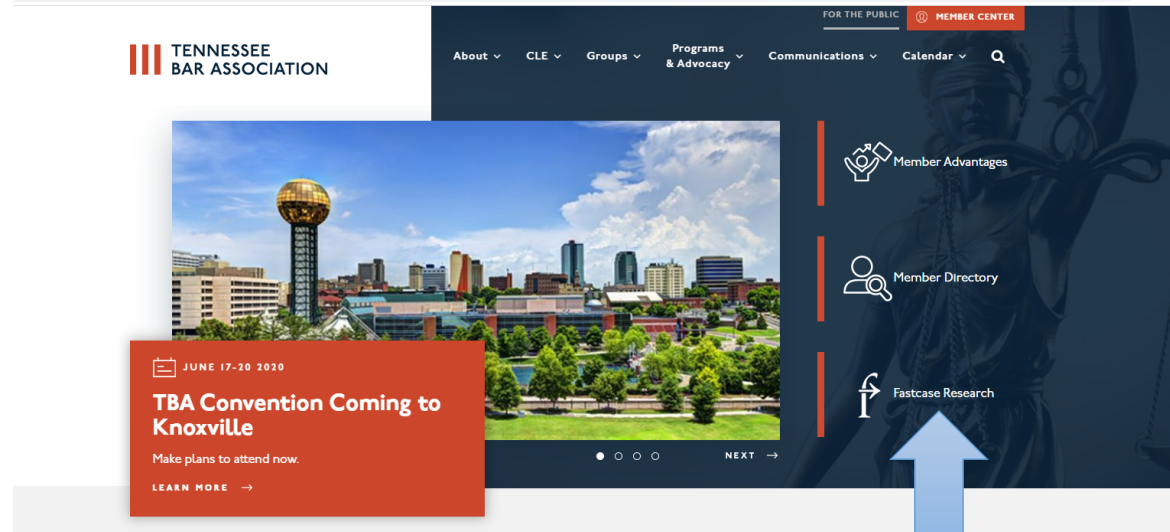

what is Fastcase?

Founded in 1999

- (A tech company that survived!)
- The mission was simple – create an alternative to Westlaw and Lexis for conducting research on primary law.
- This is not just a cheaper version of the big two, but something entirely different.
- We are now partners with 33 state bar associations, over 800,000 subscribers.

you already have access to Fastcase

Login through TBA homepage and click the Fastcase link to access all 50 states, all federal.

Search, and print as much as you like; we don't have a panic-inducing fee structure.

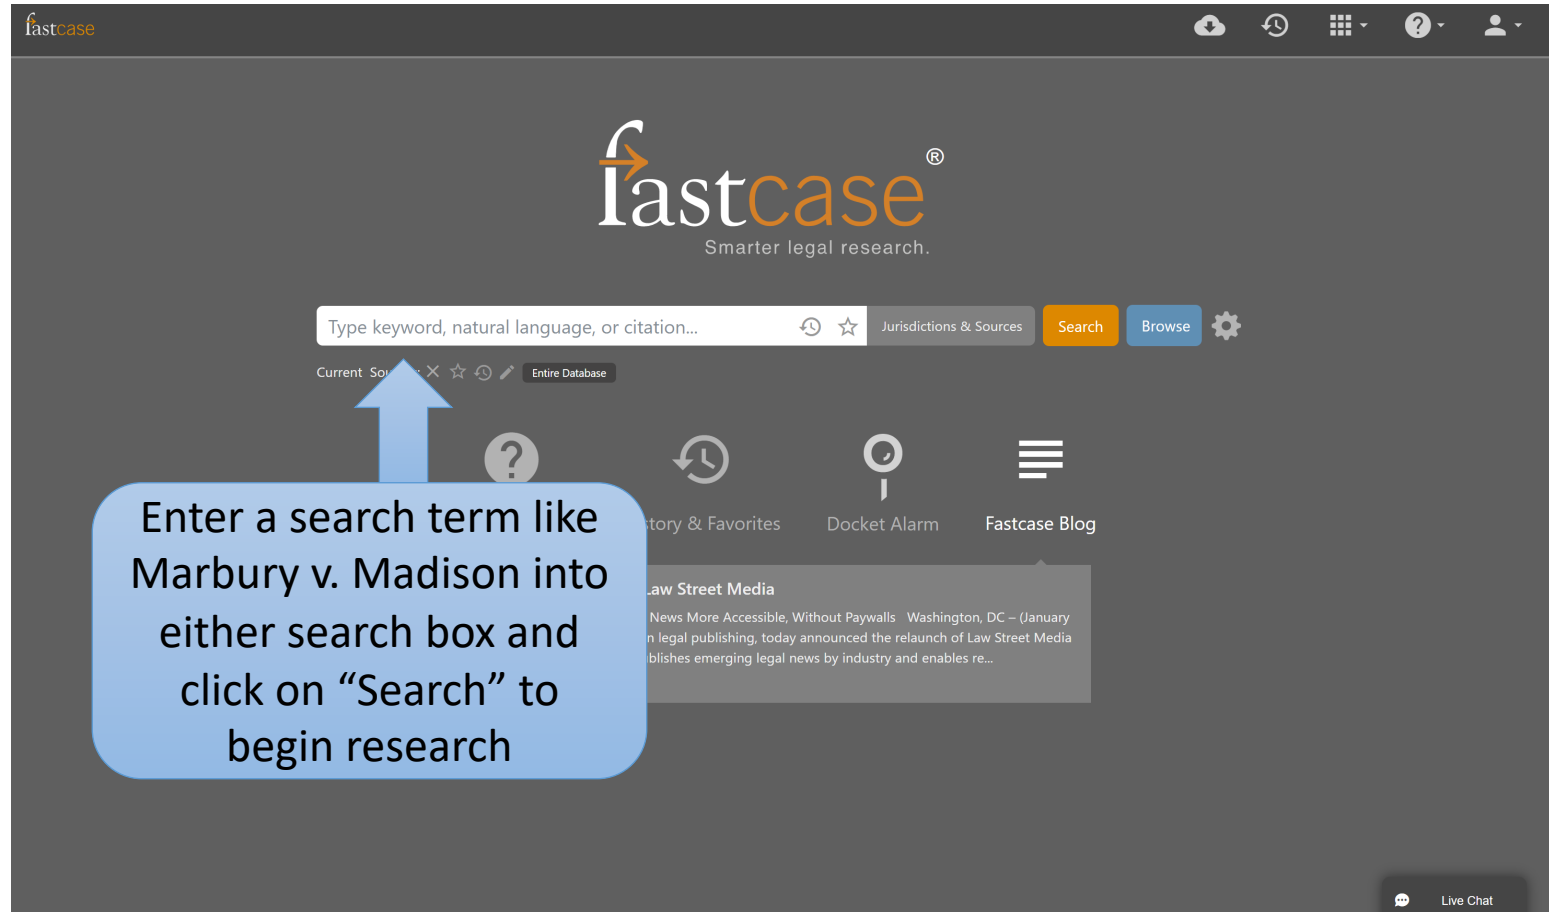

why should you try it?

The principle behind Fastcase is a lot like Google.

- More automation, less leg work.
- Researching on Fastcase is not like browsing through indexes on 90's Yahoo.
- Fastcase eliminates the “luck” element of haphazardly finding an important case early in your research.
- Find cases on purpose instead.

Less May Be More When It Comes To Job References (LexBlog)

Author: Daniel Schwartz

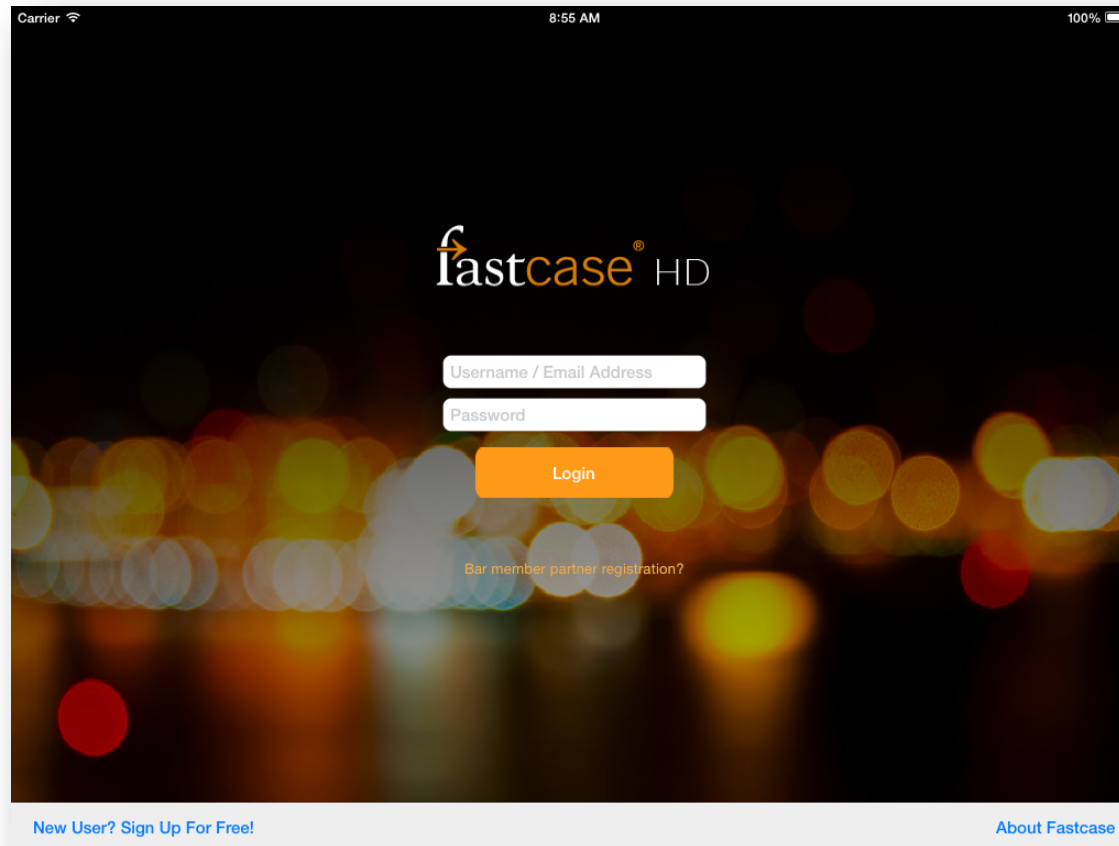

We have all heard the admonition that “less is more.”

In an opinion that will be released next week, the Connecticut Appellate Court reminds us just how true that admonition is. In fact, the court’s decision gave one employer more than 400,000 reasons to heed the adage in the future.

The case, Nelson v. Tradewind Aviation, LLC, arose from a defamation lawsuit. According to the court’s opinion, the plaintiff had worked as a pilot for Tradewind Aviation for a summer back in 2007. At the end of the season, the company needed to downsize for the winter. The plaintiff and others were laid off. His termination paperwork indicated that he had been laid off due to lack of work.
