Intersection of Criminal & Family Laws

This presentation will discuss the intersection of criminal law and family law. The panelists will discuss: (1) orders of protection and parallel domestic violence prosecution of criminal charges; (2) new legislation addressing child support awards against drivers that kill the supporting parent of surviving minor child, as well as (3) dependent and neglect actions being parallel to the criminal prosecution of child abuse and the witness rules for minor children in each case.

Pitfalls and Pointers: Litigation Involving Closely-Held Businesses and Family Law

What happens at the intersection of commercial litigation and family law—when a divorce involves a closely-held business, or a business owner gets a divorce? How do a business's organizing documents—its articles, operating agreement, or bylaws—set up owners for success or leave them vulnerable? How do you know what the business is worth? When can your spouse claim part of your business, and when can you be liable for your business's debts? Learn the answers to these questions and more, and how best to protect your clients when commercial litigation and family law collide.
